

Laura's Outlook

Happy Holidays to one and all!

Old Man Winter is knocking at our door. Soon snow will cover our walkways and doorsteps. Embrace the season!

I sincerely hope that everyone had a wonderful Thanksgiving and was able to enjoy friends and family. I was lucky enough to share my day with family from out of state. I cherished every bit of laughter and even the spilled gravy. The dog however loved the spills more than anyone! 😊

It seems like the year 2009 had just started and now we are nearing its end. One door closes and another door opens. PowerPick has been opening new doors with fresh & exciting pools for one and all! Check out our website full of great information and inventive pooling. It is the season to share. So, what better way to share than in pooling? There is nothing greater than winning but even better when you know you are sharing your wealth with others.

So, let Old Man Winter come a knocking, because PowerPick will take care of all of your lottery needs without you having to walk out your door and into the cold.

I hope behind everyone's doors are fantastic opportunities and success in 2010!

Happy New Year and Happy Pooling! 😊
